BAGWORMS

Bagworms have been a constant problem in this area for homeowners with such shrubs as arborvitae, white cedar, and junipers.

For control of this insect, your shrubs should be treated as early in June as possible when the larvae (worms) are young and the bags are small.Older bagworms are resistant to insecticides.

One material that gives good control of bagworms is Diazinon 50% wettable powder. Mix this at a rate of 1 tablespoon per gallon of water, then spray your shrubs. Diazinon 25% emulsifiable concentrate may also be used. Mix this at a rate of ⅔ tablespoon per gallon of water.

Also as a measure of control, older and larger bags can be picked from your shrubs by hand and dropped in a can of diesel oil to kill the larvae. If you have just a few small bags visible these may also be picked from your shrubs. For additional information, contact the Appomattox County Extension Office.

Family Night For Music Students

The Appomattox Yamaha Music School, an international-ly franchised program for children ages 4 to 8, held its Family Knight Program on June 19 at the Appomattox Court House Presbyterian Church. The classes are taught by Mrs. Karen Gibson who has been trained by Yamaha Corporation as an instructor. The objective of the school is to teach music reading, orient the students to the keyboard, and to provide ear training in preparation for private instrument study under any teacher.

Each class demonstrated skills they had learned during the year. The Music Fundamental Class (1st semester) consisting of Kathy Chambers, Terri Hamlett, Ta Ta Meggin-son, and Bob Stratton played the reed organs, clapped note values, performed a Winnie-the-Pooh Dance, sang simple folk songs by words and by letter names of notes, and demonstrated finger exercises.

The Applied Fundamentals Class (2nd semester students), Ruth Glover, Angela Hackett, Avris Knight, Amy Mann, Cindy Seamster, and Kathy White played "Little Waltz" demonstrated "Listen and Play" exercises, played rhythm instruments on eighth and quarter note patterns and sang songs by note names from music charts.

The Advanced Fundamentals Class (2nd year students), Carolyn Carnelix, Susie Carne-fix, Lona Carwile, Kathy Beasley, Nolan Gibson, Anne Hancock, Robin LeGrand and Susan LeGrand, sang songs in rounds, performed an ensemble of keyboard players, rhythm groups, and singers on the fold tune "Are You Sleeping" and "Hoot Owl".

In addition, all students sang "Matchmaker" and "It's A Small Audience" for their audience of approximately 60 people. The children participated with enthusiasm and a self-confidence not expected for their young age.

Classes will resume and new classes will be started in the fall.
